

COMPLEMENTARY COURSE – PSYCHOLOGY

Semester system for B.A degree Course has been introduced in 2009. The syllabus was revised. The following branches are offered in the First and Second year

Semester	Course Code	Paper Title
I	PSY1C05	Psychological Process I
II	PSY2C05	Psychological Process II
III	PSY3C06	Life Span Development
IV	PSY4C05	Psychology of Social Behavior

Programme Specific Outcome

These fields of Psychology as branches of Applied Psychology are growing at a tremendous pace. The subject has become of great utility in understanding one's own self and the behavior of others in relation to society. The specific Programme outcomes of the Psychology are:

- To stimulate the curiosity and the interest of students in the subject.
- To teach the students the concepts and principles of Psychological Processes, Developmental Psychology and Social Psychology.
- To enable the students to apply the basic knowledge of concepts and principles of psychology to their day to day life.
- To relate the knowledge of the three branches with economics and apply it wherever necessary.

Course Outcome

1. PSY1C05- Psychological Process I
 - To generate interest in Psychology.
 - To familiarize the students with the concepts of basic Psychological processes.
 - To understand basics of various theories in Psychology.
2. PSY2C05- Psychological Process II
 - To familiarize the students with the concepts of basic psychological processes.
 - To provide basic knowledge about systems and processes like cognition, intelligence and personality.

3. PSY3C06- Life Span Development

- To create awareness about major Psychological changes along with physical and cognitive development.
- To study emotional, social, developmental and adjustments of life span periods.

4. PSY4C05- Psychology of Social Behavior

- To enable the student to understand and explain behavior in the social setting.
- To explain the psychological aspects of various social phenomena.